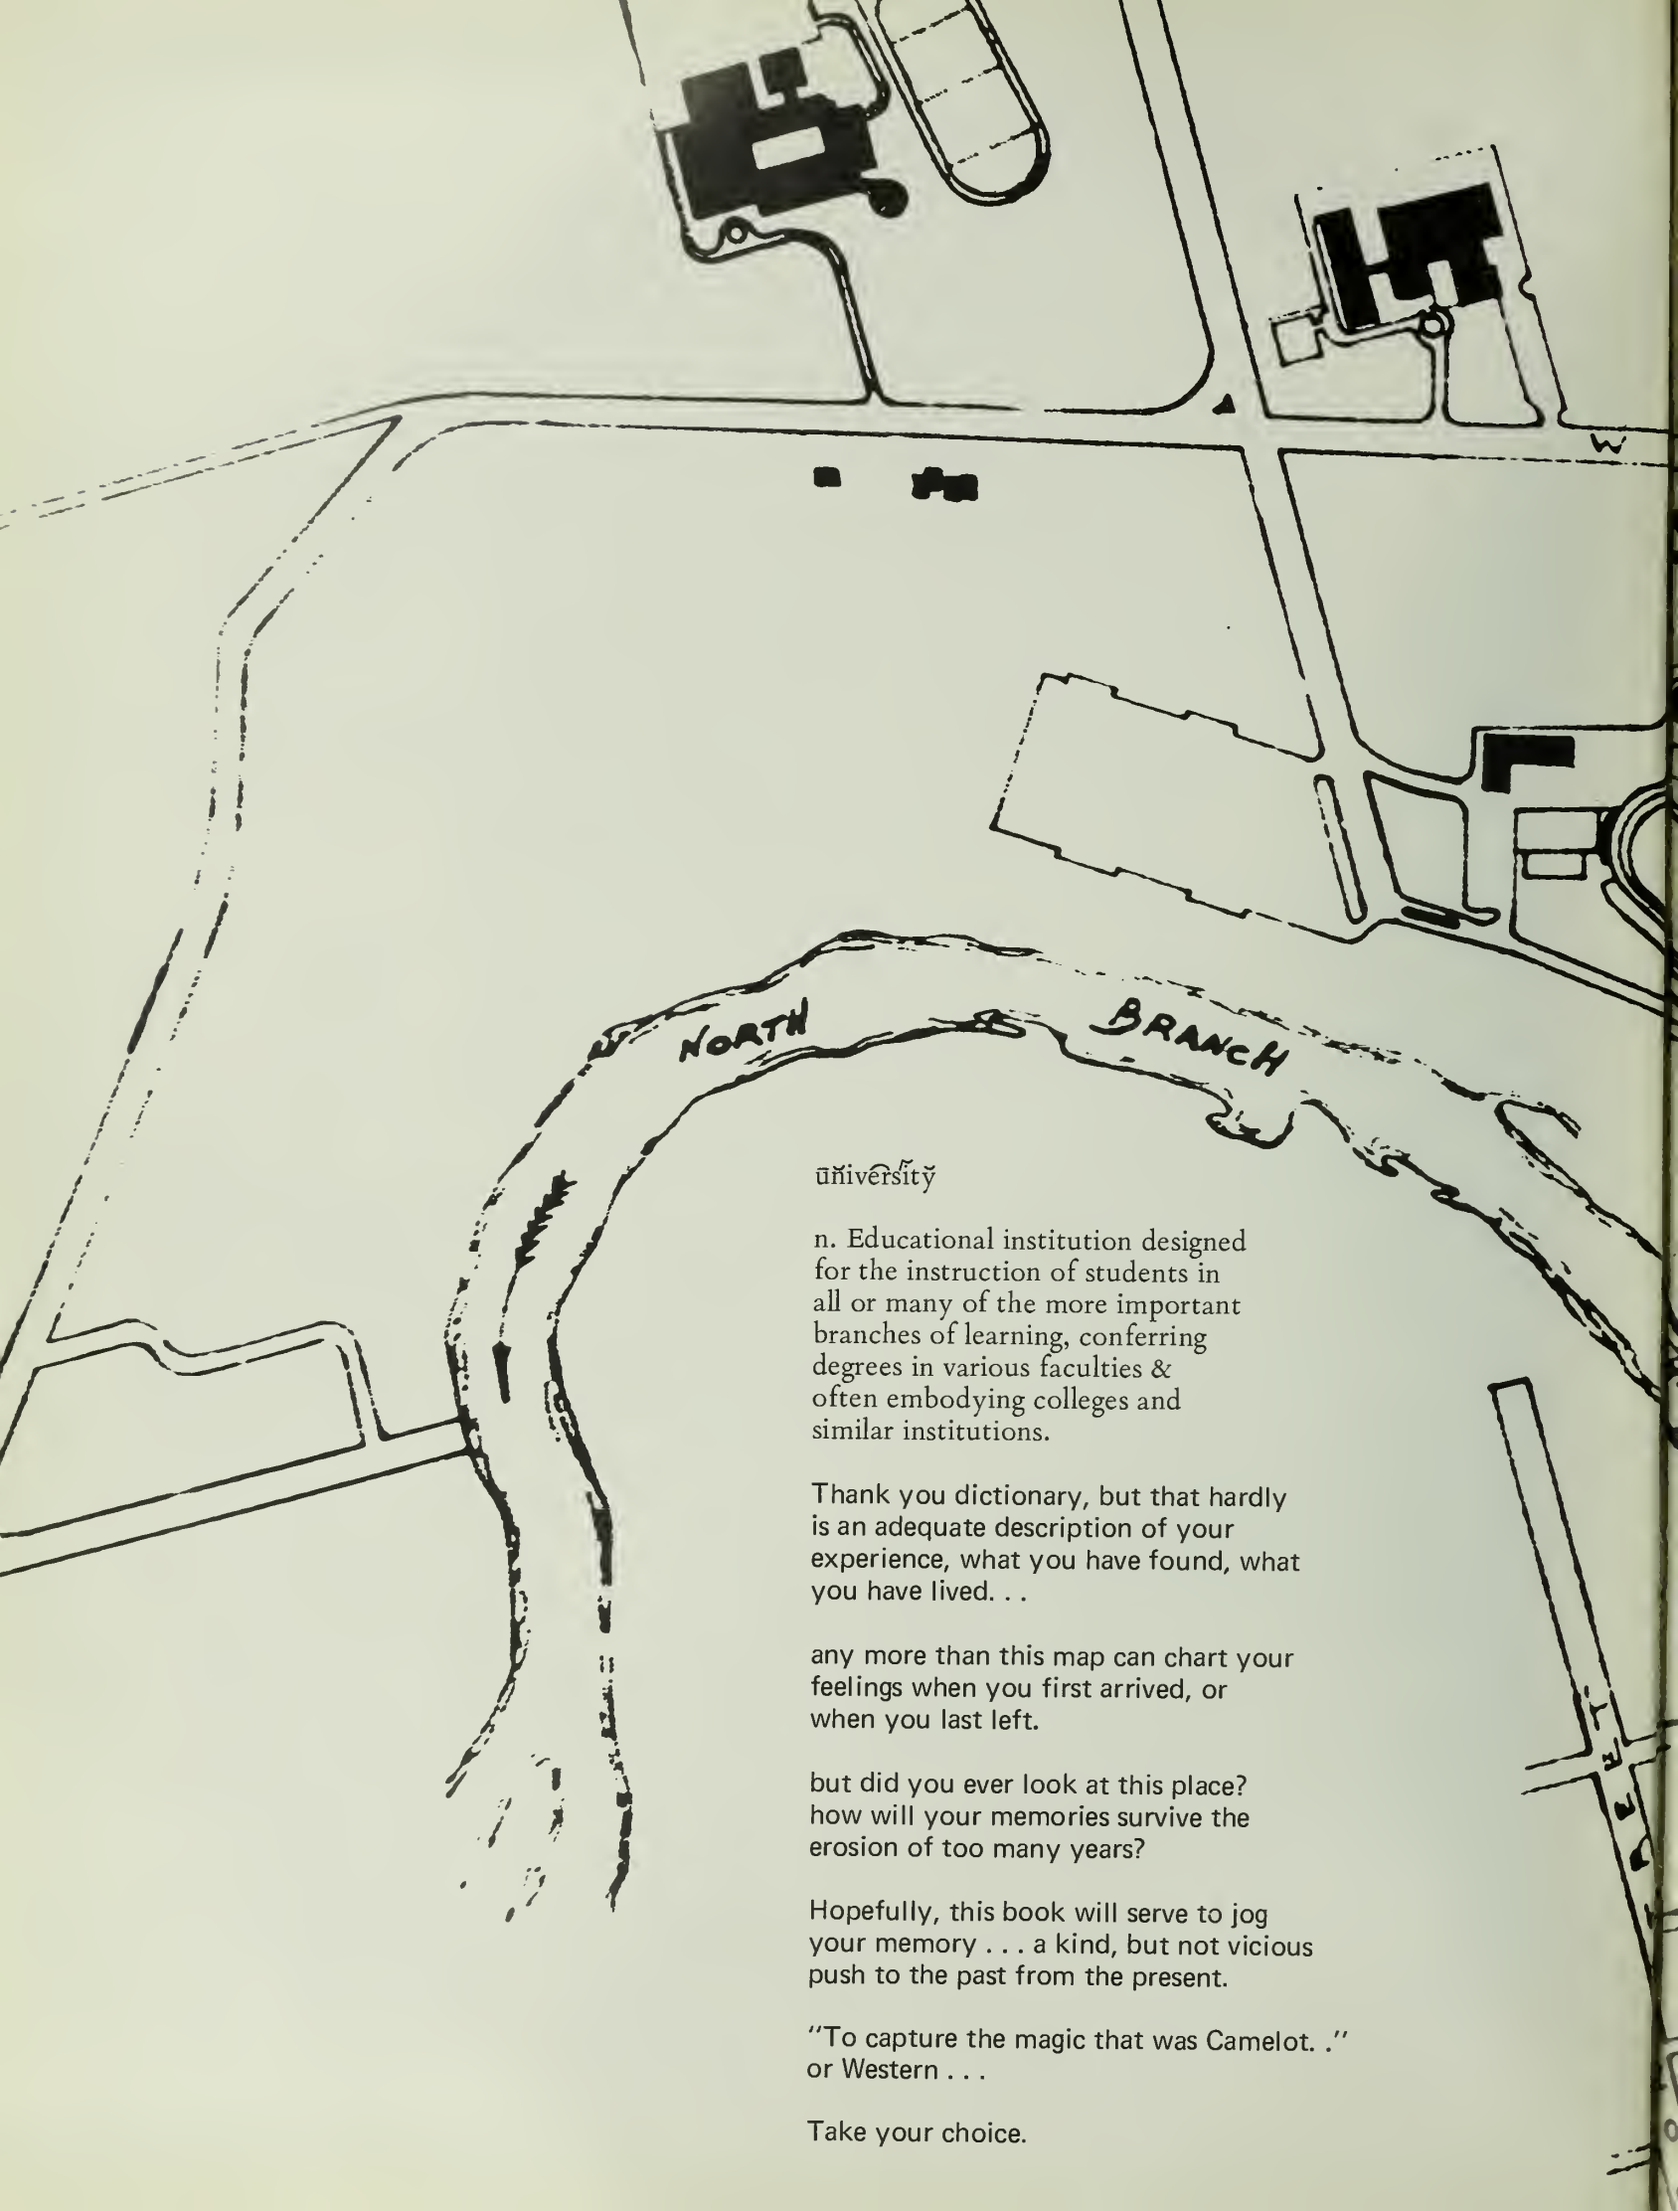
1969 VOLUME XXXVIII

MANAGING EDITOR: EVAN BROWNE
PUBLISHED BY THE STUDENTS' COUNCIL OF
THE UNIVERSITY OF WESTERN ONTARIO
LONDON, ONTARIO



ūniversity

n. Educational institution designed for the instruction of students in all or many of the more important branches of learning, conferring degrees in various faculties & often embodying colleges and similar institutions.

Thank you dictionary, but that hardly is an adequate description of your experience, what you have found, what you have lived. . .

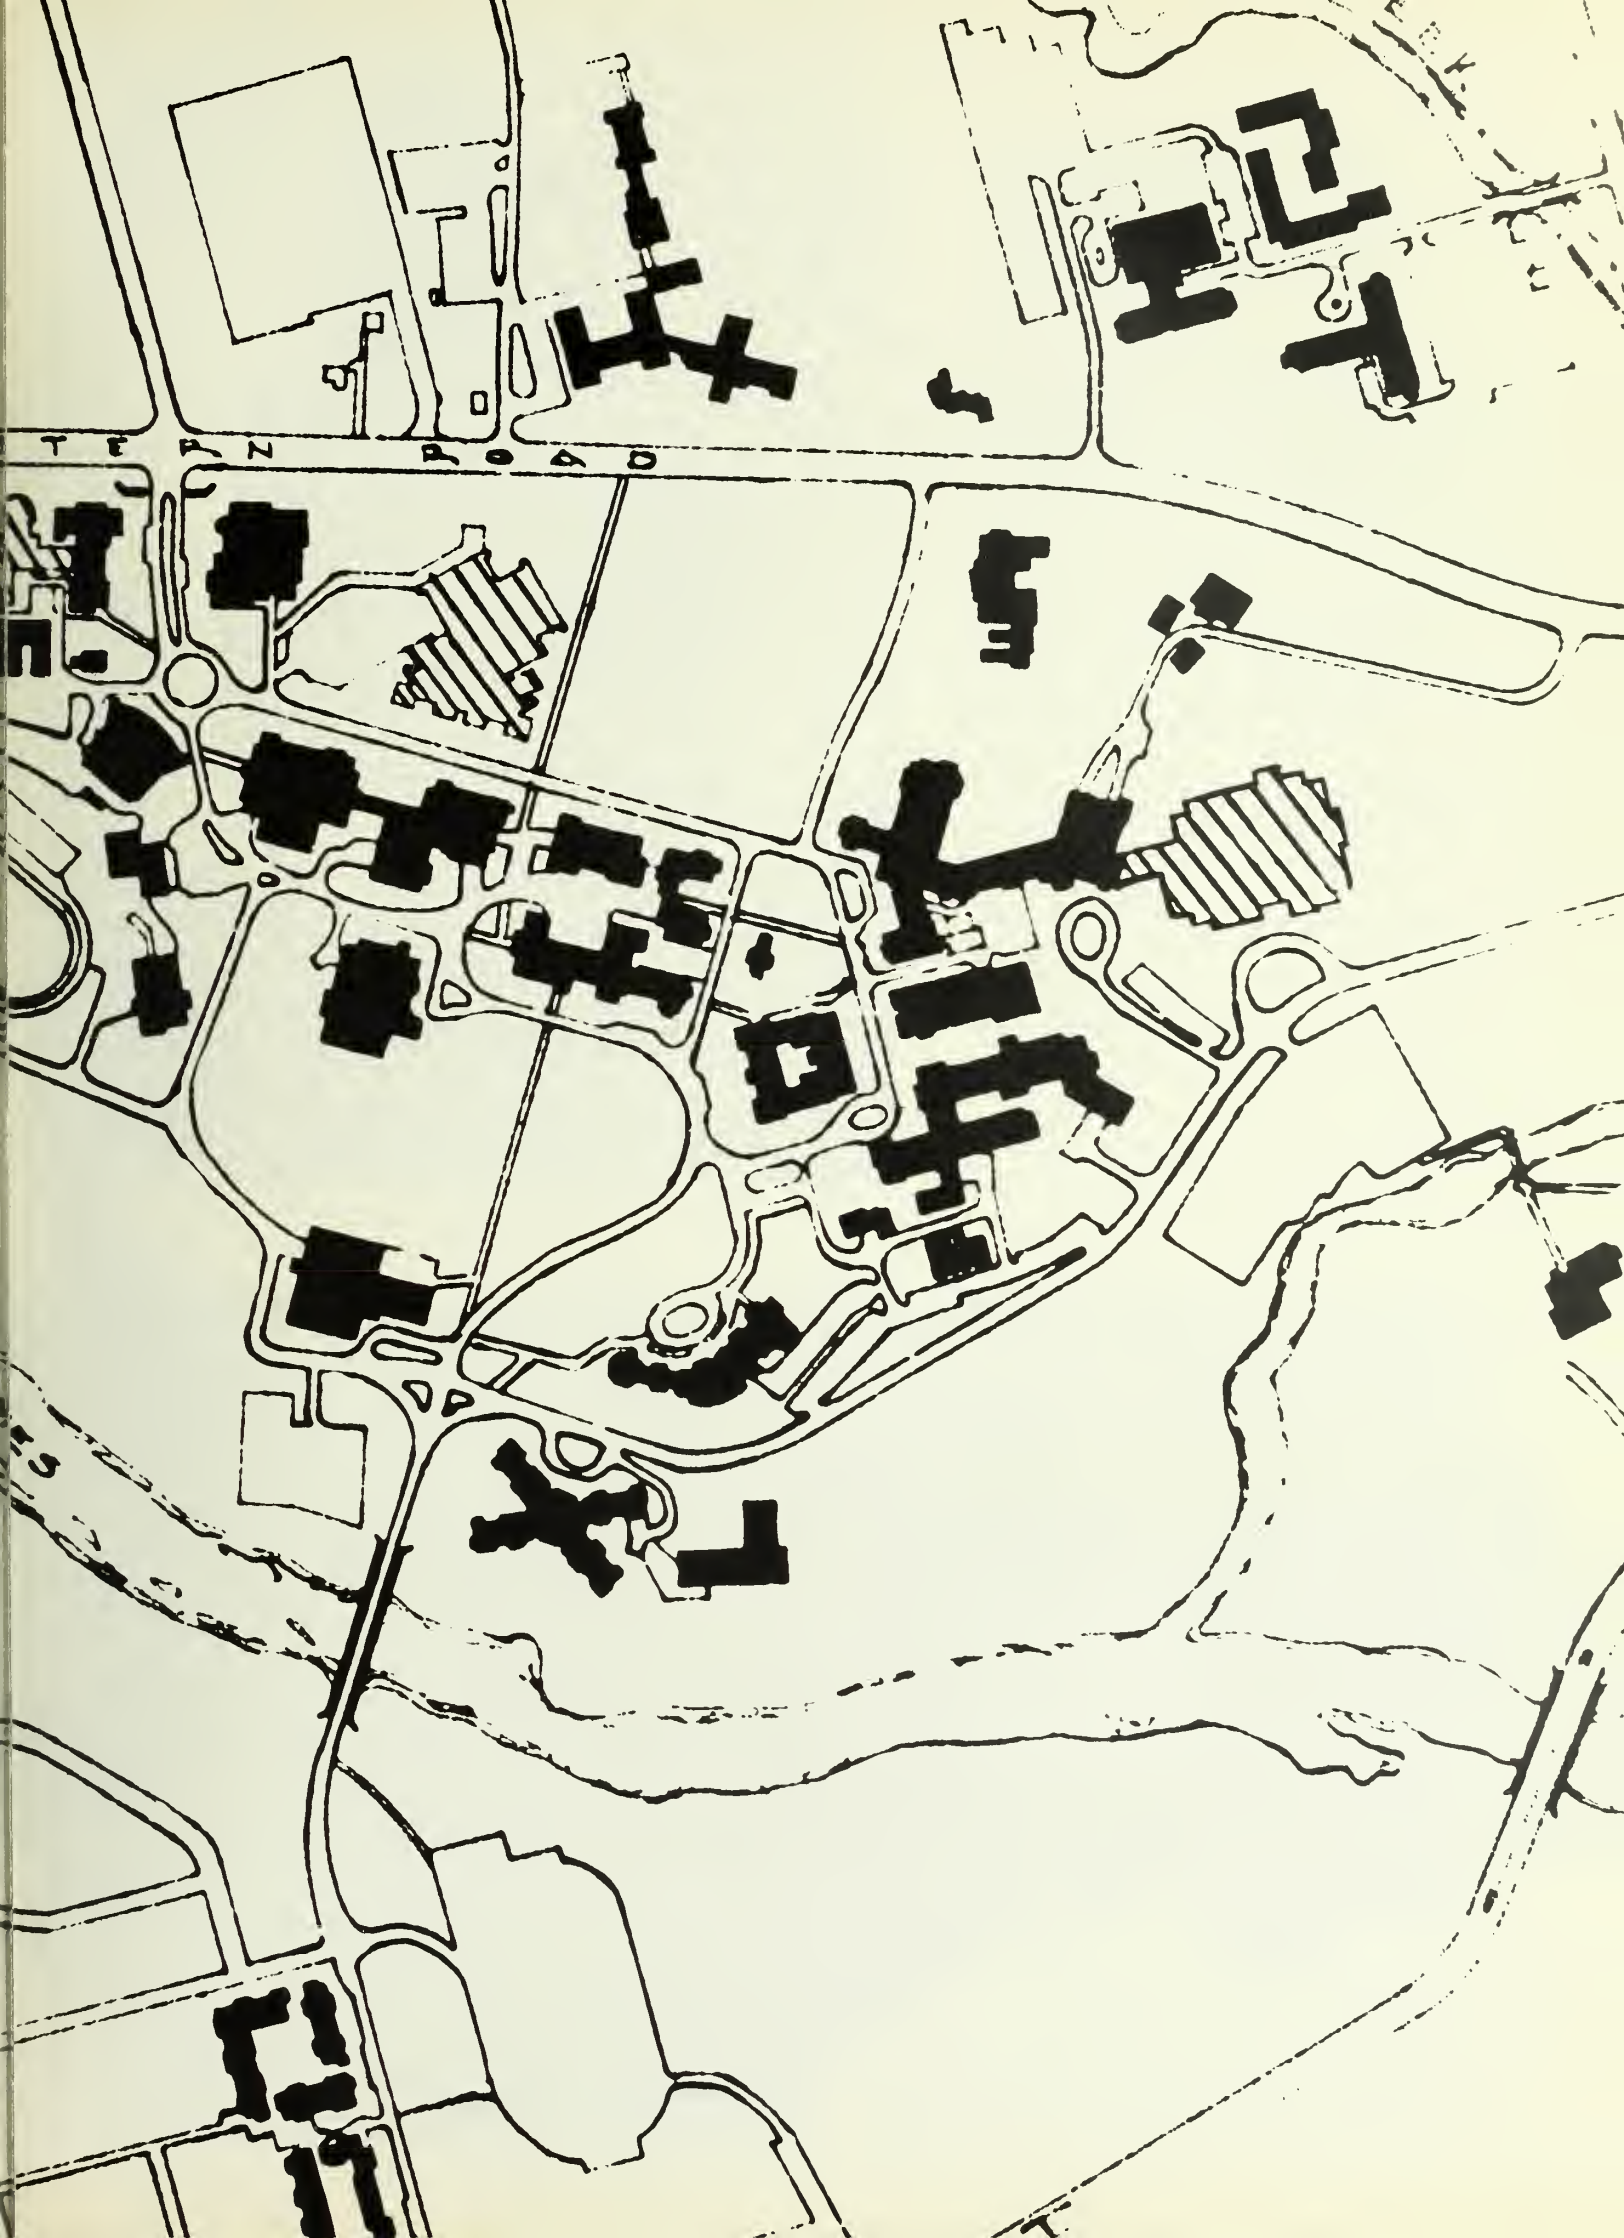
any more than this map can chart your feelings when you first arrived, or when you last left.

but did you ever look at this place? how will your memories survive the erosion of too many years?

Hopefully, this book will serve to jog your memory . . . a kind, but not vicious push to the past from the present.

"To capture the magic that was Camelot. ." or Western . . .

Take your choice.



TERN ROAD

So you were here for one year, two, three, maybe four — maybe more. Maybe too much, maybe too little. But then again, only you can answer that.

Now you've gone . . . passed like the wind through the trees. You have probably left little of you at Western. Perhaps nothing more than a few blips on a magnetic tape in Stevenson Hall. Perhaps more.

But only time can tell.

When you came, what did you see? Was this what you had thought it would be? Have you become what you thought you would?

But when you leave, you take with you the experience of Western; of living here, of breathing here.

And what have you gained other than that? . . .
headaches and friends and dreams and plans and loves and maybe a degree
. . . and maybe even an education.

So you alternately strove and slacked.
which, when you think of it, is what you will do for the rest of your somewhat natural life.

But when you thought it was time to make an effort, you did,
and whether or not is was worth it depended on the goals you had set for yourself . . .

be they ten beers chugged or a straight 'A' average and so you will leave, to go on to bigger, but not necessarily better, goals

and success will depend on the lessons that you have at least been slightly acquainted with at Western so your efforts have not been in vain if you have at least learned learning can't just be the process where you spew out what you have learned in three short hours onto a piece of paper.

If you have lived at Western, you have learned and what you have learned depends on what you needed to know, or what you thought you needed to know.

You are asked "What's your occupation?"
and you answer "student"

and it is a full time occupation twenty-four hours a day.

but if you don't remember it,
what good was it?

This place will be with you for the rest of your life, but will you remember the odd wound up feeling the first day you walked into the wonderful hustle of Somerville?

or walking for ages from the Music College to the main campus for one cruddy class?

or drinking coffee for hours on end while rapping with comrades or friends in Middlesex or Talbot or the Common Room or wherever it was that you drank it?

do you remember struggling up the hill to U.C., enveloped in fog and/or snow?

will you remember watching the river rise and wondering fatalistically when it is going to sweep away Delaware or your car in the Medway parking lot?

And how do you see Western now?
as pile of expensive limestone buildings?
as an institution staffed by a group of reactionaries out to oppress you?
as a dollar-bill status symbol that allows you to wear that magnificent gold knuckle-buster Western ring?

or do you see it as a community where all your fellow men are bent on doing whatever they have in mind, but existing and co-existing in some form of harmony?

and would you have been the same
had you not come here?

That sort of question can again
be only answered by you.

But the effect that Western has had on you depends on whether you remember
remember
remember
remember

what you need is something to jog you once in a while.

Whatever Western was to you, there should remain some record to help you, to remind you of that period of time between September 1968 and May 1969 when you were at Western.

and that's what a yearbook is I guess.

or at least I hope.

It isn't easy to sit down and put together a book
that can be all things to all people.

If something that you considered important isn't here
it isn't because it didn't happen.
Maybe it escaped attention, or maybe there was a different standard of priorities attached to this book.

But if it helps you remember it by the mere fact that it was ignored, the book is successful.

and that's what this is . . . .

REGISTRATION

All years have to start some way, but god, what an awful way to do it.
So with high hopes and a heavy wallet, you set out early in the morning with the spurious notion that you will progress through the maze before noon.
And you get there to find that they will not even look at you until noon. Oh well.
And when you finally get past the uniformed St. Peter at the portals, the test is on.
If you get through the main registration with your courses plan intact, you can consider yourself very lucky. What has probably happened is that you find that, because of course loads etc., you have switched your major, and are probably going to graduate three years later than you had planned.
If you don't like what you have got,
you can always try and get it changed.
Ha ha ha choke.
And have you noticed, everyone wants money
And just how far can you push a Student Loan?

One thing you can console yourself with — next year will be worse.
So you pay your money and you sign your name in a million places, and they stab you in the arm and you sign your name again, and somewhere along the line you have met at least half the people you knew last year, and you sign your name again.
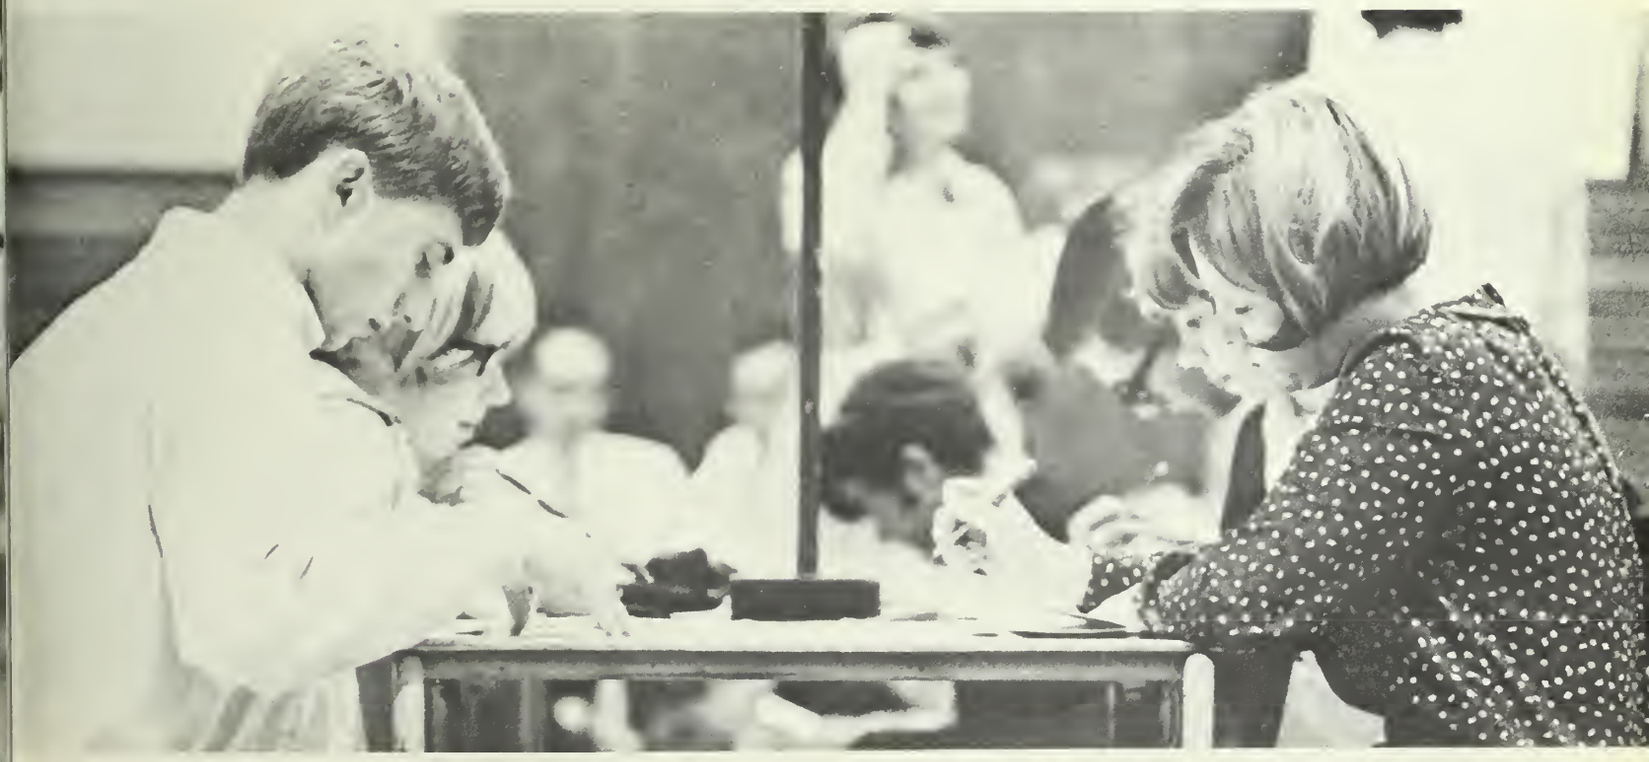
But the important thing is,
you are back.



ORIENTATION

With each September come some dazed, somewhat starry-eyed, and often brash young individuals to Western.
September 1968 was no exception. And Western was in various forms of readiness for them.
The Administration had been ready for them for some months.
The University Students' Council was ready for them.
Purple Spur lay in wait with their beanies and buttons.
Residence Councils were prepared for their unwitting victims.

And again the poor bastards walked right into the trap.

Between academic registration, social orientation, group sessions with their USC-appointed leader, sample lectures, College Council luncheons, dances, eating, and sleeping, the first year types were theoretically integrated into the community here. As usual, there was not enough co-operation, and too many individuals tried to carve out their own little empires in the whole orientation procedure. Still and all, it wasn't all that bad.

The USC sponsored a gathering of group leaders over a Westminster College in early September. Discussions as to the purpose and desirability of various methods of orientation raged far into the early and late mornings.
And certainly they have tried, and this rather contentious area is improving as the image or the "lowly frosh" dies in the minds of the upperclassmen.
Not only that but the Frosh (Slosh) Hop in Port Stanley was revived.

As to the types of orientation that they were subjected to, the freshmen reacted differently.
Barb King (Group Leader): "They didn't know themselves well enough yet to evaluate the university."

And that pretty well summed it up. Orientation '68 wasn't a flop because none of the freshmen went home in fear and didn't come back.
Just as certainly, however, was the fact that because there are different individual preferences, not all the activities (cultural, intellectual, social, or otherwise) suited everyone, and on that basis, Orientation '68 could hardly be described as a screaming success.

It's good that they went through it though. Now, for better or for worse, they (the freshmen) are a part of Western, and will have to face another bewildered bunch next September for orientation '69.

THE ASSOCIATION

For professional entertainment, the Spur brought in the Association, and that wasn't a mistake. With "PAT PAULSON FOR PRESIDENT" stickers plastered all over their guitar cases, they came on with a brand of polish that made the viewer attentive to the finer nuances of their own style of harmony. Playing many of their hits (Cherish, Never My Love, and Along Comes Mary), their patter in between numbers was fresh and spontaneous. The audience had a good time as they weren't played down to, but played "across" at, as there was a degree of respect by this group for its audience.

The group played two shows to 4500 enthusiastic Frosh and others and was a good start for the Spur, as far as entertainment was concerned. Too bad they couldn't keep it up.

ORGANIZATIONS WEEK

One Monday morning early in October it happened. Tents mushroomed on U.C. hill, and there it was, a full fledged semi-circus.
And there you could join any organization that exists on campus, and then some.
In fact, some energetic souls decided that this was the time to form a new club or two. Some were serious, and a radio club petition was circulated pushing for an FM station on campus.
Others were not quite so serious as the formation of the Apathy Club might indicate. Pre-empting the empty USC booth, this was the club for everyone, offering absolutely nothing.

Putting the clubs out on the hill in tents was a good idea, however, as it liberated the clubs from the chaos of the Talbot College hallway, or the gloom of the one in University College.
Everyone came around and looked and asked questions and poked and prodded, and some even joined.
It was just as well that it didn't rain.

PARKING

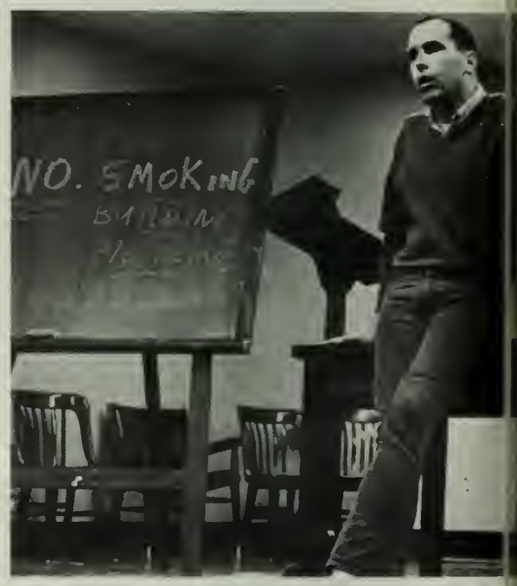
Like everywhere else in our mobile society, parking is a problem at Western, and last year was no exception to its progressive stranglehold. Over 7000 parking tickets were given out (although the faculty steadfastly refused to pay for theirs) and cars were towed away at the convenience of Doug Waite and Bill Kovacs and the whim of the Security Police.

The problem had grown in past years, and with the apointment of C.W. Brown, an ex-military policeman, as head of Campus Security, it became apparent that the administration was trying to break the deadlock.

Action by the USC and various ad-hoc committees only postponed the resolution of the matter, as on July 1, 1969, a new parking plan was instituted, containing all the contentious points of the original proposal.

You won't recognize the place if you ever come back.

C.U.S. REFERENDUM



Through the fall, a long and bitter battle was waged across the campus, with the end result of Western's pullout from the Canadian Union of Students. The anti-CUS forces, led by Brian Pollick (who later withdrew), Grant Evans, Bob Cerna, and Jim Brown, claimed that CUS had gone "commie" and that its radical course had taken it far from the wishes of the students of Western. Pro-CUS forces argued for the substantial benefits that Western had received from the Union, and claimed they had been misquoted, misunderstood, and that the rest were misinformed. Jan Kestle, Bob Baldwin, and many of the USC executive, along with the Gazette Editorial Board fought hard, and even the presence of Martin Loney and Peter Warrian could not reverse the flow. When the tide had gone out, CUS had gone with it.

Gordon Meredith Lightfoot: singer, poet, composer, entertainer, human.
Standing there in the spotlight, almost shimmering, Gord sang of places and of people with insight and sensitivity, creating a spell that applause didn't break.
The Purple Spur brought him in for the United Appeal Show, and almost instantaneously, there was a sell-out house.
Red Shea and John Stockfish added and blended to the music, creating the substance of Gord's fantasies . . . "and our fingers entwined like fingers of light . . "

HOMECOMING

Parades and dances and floats and football games and hangovers. That's what HOMECOMING is. Or at least a part of it. In the floats and parades and bands and stuff category, Westminster won (again) in the residence and college class, C. S. won in the professional faculties, the Phys. Ed. Club won their category, and Huron took the overall award. We won't even mention the Engineers' float (See bottom of opposite page).

For entertainment at Homecoming the Great Artists Series, put on by the Alumni Association, brought in Ramsey (In Crowd) Lewis. Giving the crowd the works, Lewis was responded to by thunderous applause. The three musicians had incredible polish, and the control and quality of their sound left no doubt as to their supreme professionalism.

Over 5000 Alumni made it back for the '68 Homecoming, and when you add that to 'n' number of students, that puts together quite a crowd if you ever get them together in the same place.
10,000 of them saw the good ol' home team demolish the McGill (Kill the Frogs) Redmen which was a good thing as it was in the spirit of the weekend. The score was 56 — 2 which says something, and the Gazette awarded the "Plowed Boy" Award to an otherwise unidentified individual named Ron who ran around the track at least twice, purloined the end zone flag from the field, and nearly made it over the fence with an awesome scissors kick.
A Roam-Around Dance was held on the campus on the Saturday night, with bands in Alumni Hall, Thames Hall, and Somerville House. On top of that, the Centennial Discotheque was run down at Centennial Hall, with a band (oh really?) and a bar (oh yes!). From most points of view, the weekend was a success when it was all added up, and you can just wonder what it will be like when you come back.

THE HUB

At this point, it is time to mention the Hub. The Hub is a weekend phenomena that opens every year (for the last three years) sometime around Homecoming, and it so happened that this year, it opened on Homecoming Weekend. In it's first year of operation, the Hub was sweat over by a fellow called Dan Bone, but this year, the mantle fell on the somewhat tall shoulders of Stu Boyd (bottom). Perhaps you might think that running a quasi-coffee shop like the Hub is a snap. Well, if you ask Stu, I think he might gently advise you that it isn't. Try to coerce some rather temperamental people (performers) into working for you for the love of it for twenty weekends, and then you'll know how easy it is. And Stu wasn't the only one who worked. His whole Hub Committee worked like crazy, as there was always something to be done. Stu's wife Carole was always there to help, as was Jeremy Tree (alias Dave Medd), Mike Bagely, and piles of others who must go un-named as there is not room. Like the coffee sellers, the set-up men, the SPF (student cop) who had to sit through evening after evening, and the poor zap that got tapped to mop up the floor afterwards.

And those are strictly the people involved in support. There was also an attempt to have a boutique under the stairs, but that was squashed by the masters.

The Hub was officially opened for the '68-'69 season by the renowned poet Carl Williams (middle, opposite page), and was followed that evening by Paul "Fingers" Mills (opposite, top) and Tom and Vicki Taylor. Then there were others who played there at other times, like Rob Young (left), Ray Sealy and/or the Ensemble Four, No Irish Need Apply, Moe Ewart, Paul Halliday, Bob "Cobber" Cunningham, Mike Hasek, Maureen Kierans, and many more who will now be furious because they weren't mentioned. I wish I could, but there isn't room.

Basically, the people who played there were from the Folk Music Society, but that was not always true, and the entertainment was diverse, ranging from films to the evening that one chap got up on stage and let out a glorious "Tarzan" yell in order to collect a ten dollar bet from his room-mate.

But it was all entertainment, although there were times when the crowd was more than somewhat dubious. The coffee was awful sometimes, but then again, what can you expect, when there is no cover charge.

Competition for the Hub sprang up in January with the founding of the Pub upstairs in the Somerville Snack Bar. If anything, it seemed to increase the crowds, which are always good anyway. Next year the Hub hopes to move upstairs to larger quarters.

AHMAD JAMAL

I know that when I wrote the Gazette review for this group, I panned them, but having heard some more of them on records and stuff, I am inclined to change my mind, which I suppose everyone is allowed to do every once in a while.

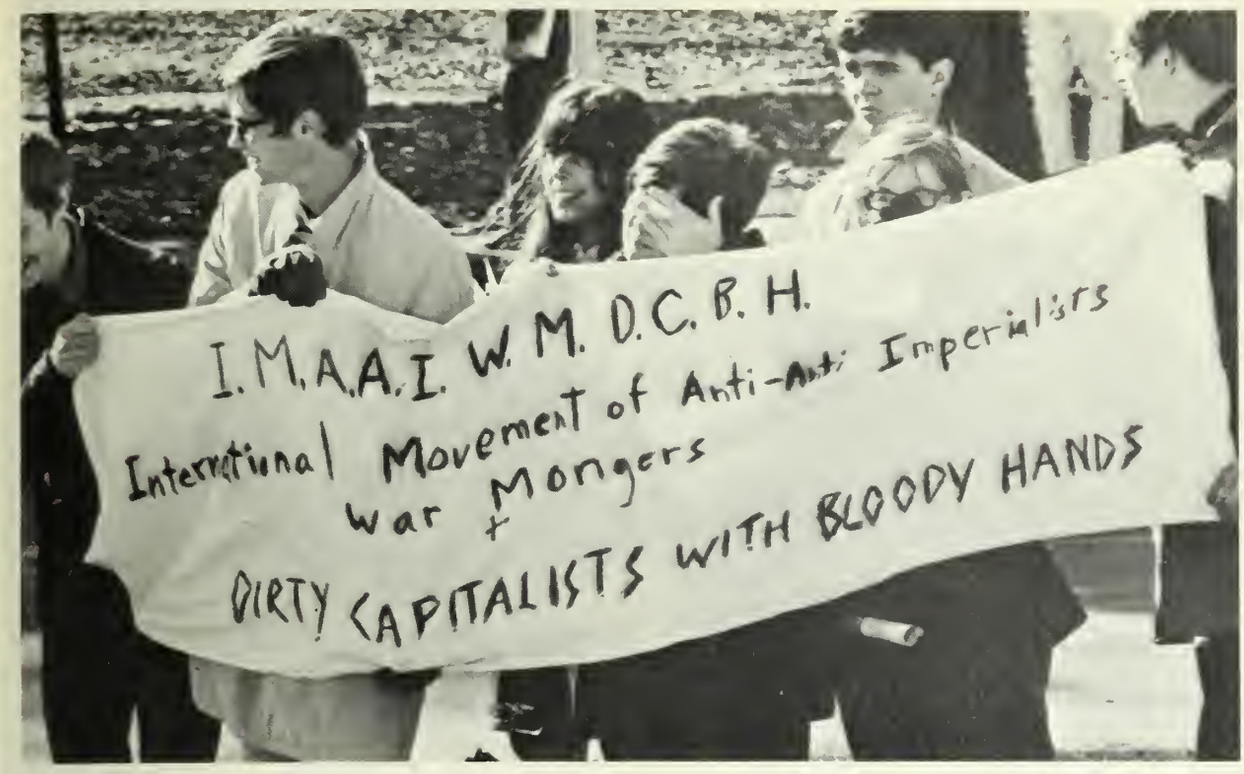
If there is one word to describe Jamal, it is style. There is just no doubt about it, especially when he is playing his own stuff.

Jamal was brought in by SNOC (Sunday Nine O'Clock) whom you will hear more about later, and was an auspicious start for their wildly fantastic season.

SAN FRANCISCO MIME TROUPE

Gazette Critic Ray Sealey called this bunch LIVE theatre, and that was the best description of them.
"In our own humble way we are trying to destroy the government of the United States."
That's what their leader said, and the man who said that laughter was the most damaging weapon would have said that the S.F. Mime bunch's effort was more than humble.
Using the technique of Commedia dell'Arte, with masks and mime techniques thrown in to make the point, it played at Althouse to a responsive and SRO crowd.

PROTESTS, TEACH-INS, AND THE LIKE



There must be something about the fall, something in the air (or the water?) that brings out the protester in us. At the drop of a hat we will march on the nearest U.S. consulate, supermarket, or at least a professor's office to voice our complaint about some injustice.
And believe it or not, no matter how cynical we have become, there are always injustices that deserve to be complained about. It's called freedom of speech, I believe.

If the weather isn't nice and we don't want to go outside, we can protest good old scapegoat Dow Chemical, or if we feel constructive, we can have a teach-in. The AIF sponsored a march to protest the war in Vietnam, but the group above didn't agree, and voiced their discontent as well.
But whether they were protesting about Californian grapes or residence food and rules, the students were bitching louder than ever, and were being heard.

BIZ KING

And then there was the strange contest to select the Business King in late October. Instead of individually hitting the books, these guys hit each other with bags of garbage.

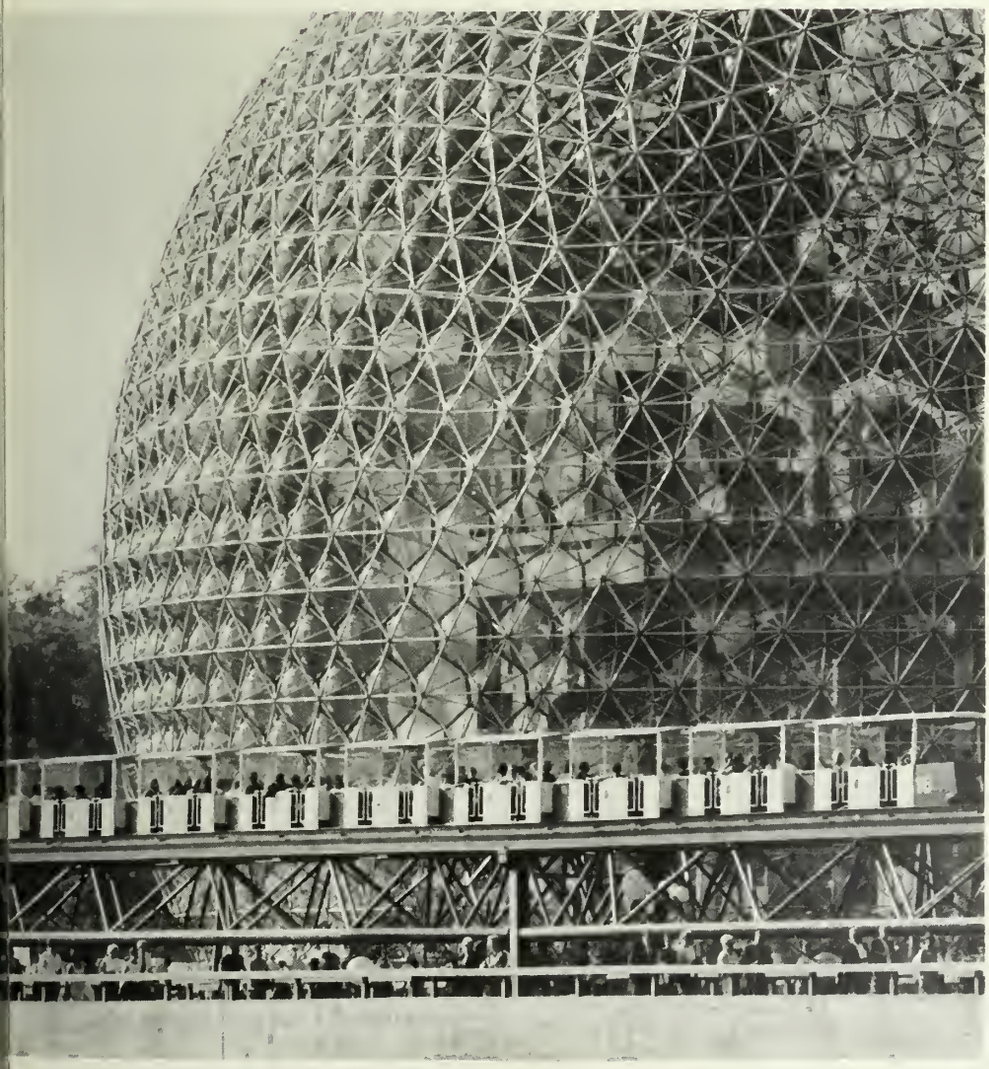
The three contestants for this desirable position were Pete "Gunga Ho" Buchanan, Ray "Chiquita" Bouche, and Ray "Pretty Boy" Rutka.

The trick of the contest was to sit on a long greasy pipe and attempt to knock the opposition off it with a bag of garbage. Very businesslike.

Rutka won eventually, stirring cries of "foul" from his opponents, as it is de rigeur to do this when winning (or losing) the contest.

"Pretty Boy" was modest in victory, and his conciliatory attitude to the opposition was a model of the perfect businessman: "I'm liberal-minded. I'll beat the hell outta ya." Oh.

BUCKMINSTER FULLER



The USC, along with John Labatts Ltd., and the London, Chamber of Commerce brought in Buckminster Fuller to have a series of lectures, talks, and seminars on his rapidly mushrooming theories of technology-philosophy-sociology-psychology-aesthetics. Using a vocabulary of self-made words like "dymaxion" and "synergy", Fuller came on like a mind-bending whirlwind, blowing away the dreams and schemes of many in London who consider themselves to be human planners of sorts.

"Why worry about a freeway? By the time you've got it finished, it will be obsolete and you'll use it for a roller-rink."

Fuller, you will remember, was the gent who designed the U.S. Pavilion at Expo (left). One thing . . . . . it is now an aviary: the world's largest birdhouse?

FALL SPORTS: MUSTANG FOOTBALL

Fall Sports. The first thing you think of is football: it has to be THE one.

Football looked rather hopeful at the start this year as the Stangs went roaring out onto the field of Little Stadium, and when all the dust had settled back down, they had beaten the Varsity Blues 29 – 21.

But it was only an exhibition game. And things started changing the following week, when the Gaels dropped them 22 – 17 in a close and hard-fought game in Kingston. The Stang's trouble was that, when they lost, it was because they just sort of folded up in the last half of the game. In previous years, it was said of Western that they always got to the game too late – like halfway through. This year they got out of that habit. They just went home too soon. They led Queens 10 – 2 after the first half, and lost 22 – 17. They fought hard against their no-win jinx (from 1960) in Toronto for thirty minutes, leading 17 – 13. The second half saw them blanked and T.O. won 32 – 17. In Waterloo, the Mustangs were leading 6 – 0 going into the third quarter, only to wind up at the soggy end of the mop with a humiliating second half whitewash, 30 – 6.

Metras was looking for another OQAA title from his boys, and for a while it looked as if he might get it. At half-time in Toronto, with his own team holding a lead over the Blues, and with McGill leading Queens 13 — 0 after two quarters, Western was thirty minutes from a League Championship. And it would have been nice. Metras is retiring after next season as the coach of the Mustangs. This was announced in June '69, and one can only see that he will try his damndest to whip a team into shape that will win next year. When you think of it, they came quite close this year, despite their third place finish in the league.

But then again, when the time came for the sun to shine on Western, it really beamed. Before a packed house at Homecoming, the Mustangs trounced McGill 56 – 2.

Western's game this year was essentially a passing game. When everything went all right for the Stangs, it was their passing game that won for them. When things went wrong, it was their passing that fell apart. Add to that some overpowering opposition, and you have Western's past season.

Western had three throwing arms this year. Joe Cipparone tried 109 passes and hit on 51, back-up Kevin St. Michael clocked in 24 completions in 58 heaves, and freshman Dave Lawson was 2 for 8 when he was inserted in the Waterloo drubbing when Cipparone's knee was injured.

When the season was all totalled up, it didn't look that bad. In the eight games (one exhibition and seven league) they played, they scored 210 points and gave up 162.

Things look good for next year, as the team will put on a real fight for Metras in his last season as coach.

RUGGER

Under Coach Derek Kersley, the Rugger team (the Vandals) put up a fine try this season, but when everything was all wrapped up at the end of the OQAA schedule, there was Western in third place behind Toronto and McMaster. For the season, they ran up a 4 — 4 record in OQAA competition. For those who will look at the statistics, and refuse to believe them, a word of explanation. In their first set-to with Guelph, the Vandals roundly thumped their opposition 40 — 3, but later Western was disqualified and the match forfeited as they had inadvertently used a post-doctorate student who was ineligible under the OQAA regulations which indicated that he was not carrying sufficient courses to be considered as a student by the league. The real trouble, however, lay with the Toronto squad. After losing in Toronto, Western played its second league game against them here at Western, and for the first time in three years, they lost a home game. This was a particularly bitter defeat, as Toronto had beaten out the Vandals in the final game the previous season to beat them out for first place, and this year, Western couldn't beat them once. The last game was lost to McMaster when their energetic squad out-waded the dispirited Vandals for a meager 5 — 3 win. Despite its third-place finish, the Vandals were never really out of contention during the season, and besides, as every rugger bugger knows, the most important thing is not winning, it's the party after.

With a record of four wins, two ties, and two losses, Western's soccer team accounted for itself in an excellent manner in the '68 OQAA season. Drubbing both Guelph and Waterloo twice each, they drew twice with McMaster, and lost two close and hardfought battles with Toronto.

The second-place OQAA League finish that they gained was equally deserving in that they fought right up to the last game for it, and in the end, were only two points back of Toronto who won six and lost two. The last game, against McMaster, saw the Mac squad pushing hard, as a win for them would have vaulted them past Western into second spot in the final standings. Under Coach Stan Hill, the team put on a fine show and handled themselves well, never giving up. More can be looked for from this group in '69.

TRACK AND FIELD

In Track and Field, Western placed 5th in the OQAA meet at Windsor, finishing behind winner Waterloo, McMaster, Queens, and Toronto. In their efforts, two of the team members captured gold medals for winning performances. Dave McGuffin won the high jump with a leap of 6′ 2″. while Max Morden won the triple jump (sometimes called hop, skip, and jump) covering 46′ 4½″. In combined meets with Windsor, Western triumphed twice, beating Windsor 117 — 87 the first time, and 95 — 48 the second time. The team continued practice throughout the rest of the year.

WOMEN'S SPORTS

Women's sports saw Western's girls come in second in the yearly WestGuMac tiff involving Western, Guelph, and McMaster. McMaster won with 19 points as opposed to Western's 17 and Guelph's 9. Andrea Geil aided the cause by firing a perfect end at 30 yards in archery, while in tennis Marion Munro and D. Ciponis won in the singles, combining later to mop up in the doubles.
In a five-school meet later on in the year, Western won by one half of a point over McMaster.

FROSH SWEETHEART

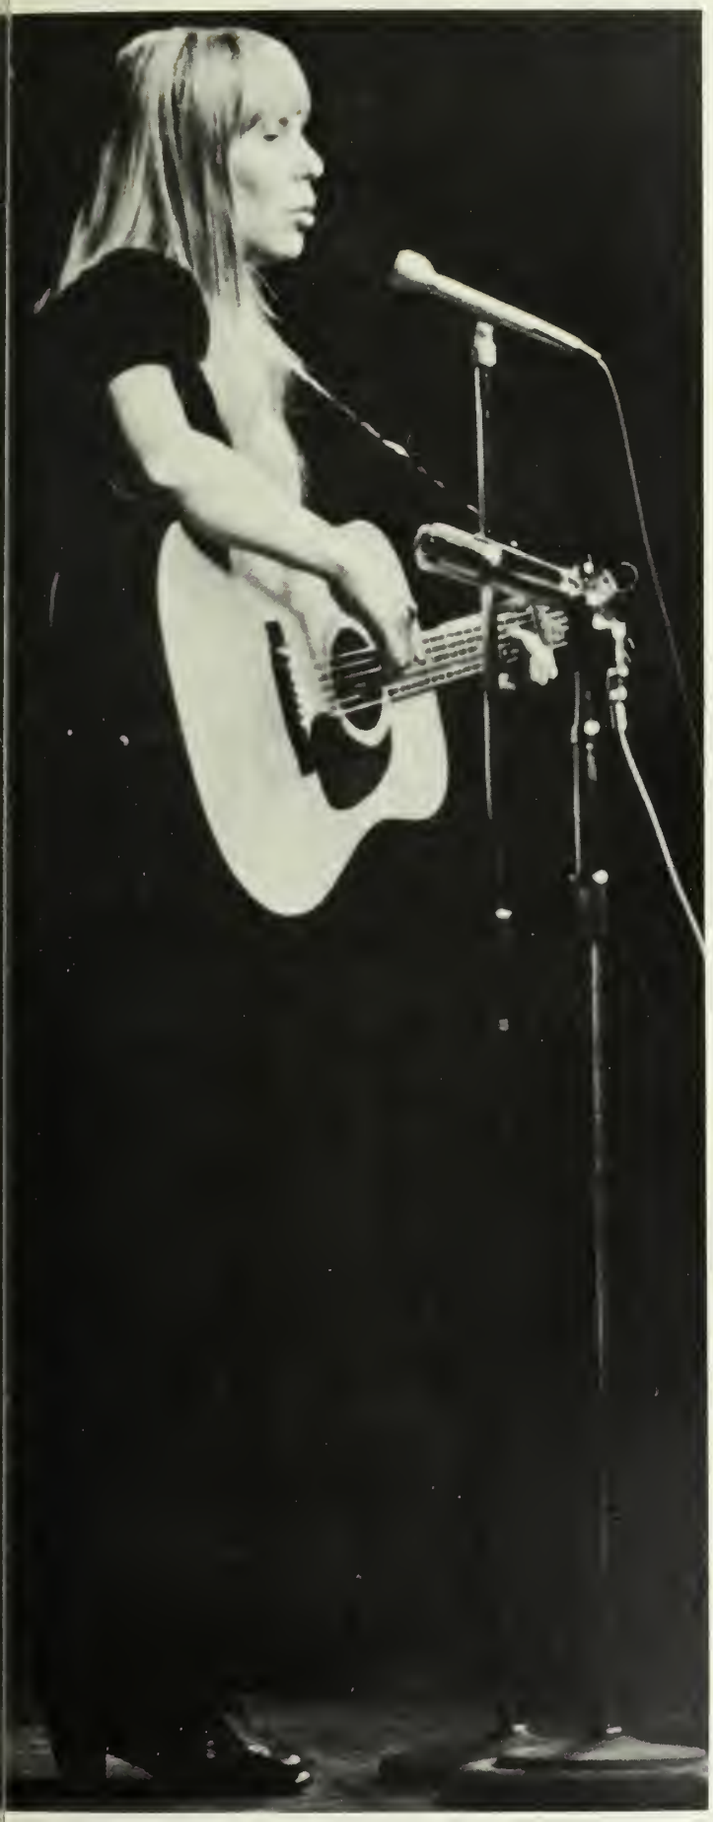
Western has queens of all sorts and sizes (yeth Harry) but it falls to the Purple Spur to pick the ones that really count. Like the Frosh Sweetheart. Picked from the first year girls, the Frosh Sweetheart also represents Western in the Canadian Miss University Contest, as Miss Western is not chosen until Winter Weekend. After interviews and such, the Spur narrowed the field down to five: Virginia Carr, Barbara Decker, Debbie Jack, Helen Pearce, and Leah Travis. Voting transpired in mid-November, and on the evening of November 16 at the Sweetheart Ball, Spur Prez Rob Keyes announced the winner.

Showered by flowers and applause and surprises (like her parents and a kiss from D.C.) Debbie Jack kept her cool quite well. And they couldn't have chosen a nicer girl. Later in the winter, she was even charming with her foot in a cast.

Fall was sort of wrapping up when the representative of the students to the Board of Governors, Patrick Donohue, decided that he no longer belonged in St. Peter's Seminary. Explaining that he felt a growing gap between himself and the church, the 24 year-old ex-seminarian felt that he could still represent the students, and went into journalism, which is where he probably belonged anyway.

TWO SUNDAY NINE O'CLOCKS
I NEW YORK BRASS QUINTET

The Sunday Nine O'Clock Committee Series was well under way by November, having brought Ahmad Jamal in at Homecoming, but the second and third concerts are placed on these two pages, if only because their mutual excellence demands complementary settings for both performances. November 3rd saw the appearance of the New York Brass Quintet in Alumni Hall. From these five came no brassy sound, though. It was pure gold. 1100 people came and listened as the sounds of composers from Bach to Poulenc were painted across the silence of the hall. Led by Robert Nagel, the first trumpet, this close-knit group combined to produce nuances and shades of sound that are rarely heard from any group, let alone from a five piece brass combination. Composed of two trumpets, a trombone, a french horn, and a tuba, the group had a singleness of thought and execution that made their music a sheer joy to listen to.



II JONI MITCHELL

"Sunday Nine O'Clock's Joni Mitchell concert turned out to be the sleeper of the year, packing people into a sitting-in-the-aisles-room-only audience in Alumni Hall.
It was a big quiet for so many voices as she opened the door to a fairyland grand extravagance with Chelsae Morning. And then, swaying from side to side with her crimson velvet from the courts of Elizabeth, 'life in the city looks pretty to me,' twentieth century lights put tints of blue on alabaster.
Beware of moons sings the story of a love in Detroit, she puts her wispy golden hair behind her ears to get down to delicate work while uncovering features that are out of her songs.
Hear of her sea-dreams in depths and then she picks splashing out from down a necklace of notes in the high.
The strangely tuned guitar was never there, but always there . . . and she sang of a man at the carnival who 'stood out like a ruby in a black man's ear.' . . . . . She has a lot of followers hidden in the Canadian quiet."

Review by Ray Sealey
The Gazette, November 22, 1968

What more could be said?

TACHYCHARDIA

Tachycardia is Western's official gross-out (aside from a six-hour council meeting), and is presented courtesy by the students of the Medical School. By and large, the production is what might be loosely termed an immorality play, spawned by some of the most vivid imaginations this side of Hollywood.

Skits like the spy spoof (by the 2nd year class) involved the Flying Nun who is detailed to raid the world's supply of contraceptives secreted in the Vatican. Arriving at the "Impregnable Fortress" what is found is a bunch of priests and nuns whooping it up to the tune of "We got Rhythm." You can see what the rest of the show, which included greats such as the "Terrible Twin Testicle Transplanter", was like. London only gets to see culture like that when the female midget wrestlers come to town. At least they haven't put all their efforts into something wasted like . . . like . . . .

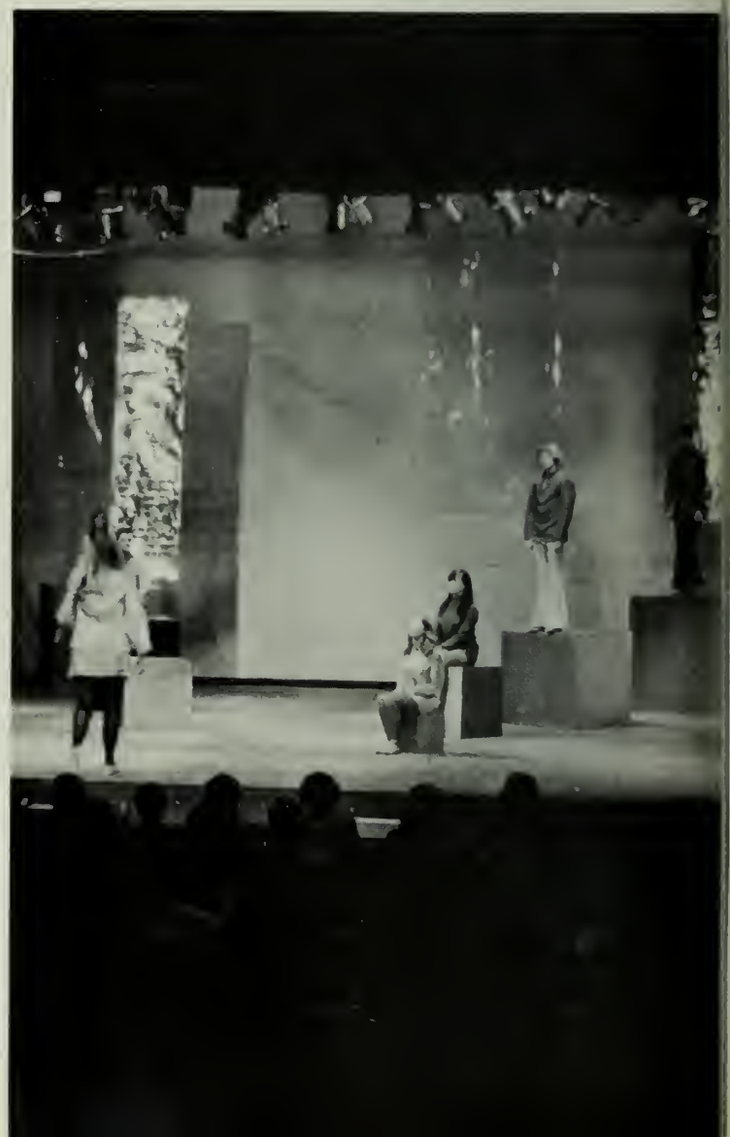
. . . well

PLAYERS' GUILD INTERVIEW & THE TOWER

Presenting two plays, "Interview" and "The Tower", in late November in Talbot College Theatre, the Players' Guild came away with a real respect for professionalism from the audience.

"Interview" featured an unwilling sort of audience participation in that part of the show involved having the ushers officiously take the names of everyone that they seated. This was relayed to three secretaries on the stage who typed up cards and gave them back to the members of the audience as they approached when their names were called: a clever relating of the play's theme of the de-humanizing aspect of society.

After the first play was over, but before the audience realized that it was, the stage was swarmed by technicians preparing the set for "The Tower". Again, a fine idea from director Martin Brezell. "The Tower" itself featured eerie vocal and visual effects as the play showed a young man trying to liberate himself from his past.



MAN & SUPERMAN ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

To quote Patrick Donohue, the Gazette's theatre critic. "If you don't like it (the English Department's production of the George Bernard Shaw play "Man and Superman"), you don't like good theatre." And that just about summed up the production. Produced by Rip Peyroux with leads Dave Christian, Wayne Burnett, Richarda Randall, and Dave Vincent, the play ran for five days in the second week of December in the Talbot College Theatre.

To spruce up the Shaw classic, which one might mistakenly think was showing its age, Peyroux designed a set consisting of surrealistic metal rod constructions. Add to that the clever lighting techniques that were employed, and above all, the superb stamina and competence of the cast, and the English Department had a more-than-excellent production.

IAN & SYLVIA

The Lovin' Sound gone Nashville, Ian & Sylvia and the "Great Speckled Bird" were brought to Western early in January by the Folk Music Society. Gone are the days of the Four Strong Winds ("we sing it and some of them (the audience) are too young to remember it and think we're crazy") and "The Professor" David Rey; arrived is a very exciting and very loud stab at the musical roots of the country.

The concert rolls along, and by the time you are used to the sheer volume of the group that includes two electric guitars as well as an electric bass and a steel guitar, they are starting into the last number of the first half — 24 Hours from Tulsa.

At the intermission, there are many people walking around with dazed and bewildered looks on their faces . . . not too sure whether or not they approve.

In the second half, Sylvia plays a lullaby on the piano as Ian directs the lighting . . "you're not going to screw up my favourite song with dumb lights . . "

By now you are used to the sound (volume?) and you can begin to move with the music. The applause at the end indicates that most of your fellow men have lost their doubts about the new tack that the old "Country and Northwestern" has taken. The show is over and you are left with the echoes of the sound and applause in your ears. Oh yes . . . after the show, someone walked off with the cash-box that had the entire gate in it. Sorry FMS.

UNIVERSITY STUDENTS' COUNCIL

gord cudmore

john yokom

gilles ouellette

Politically, if the year had to belong to anyone, it was firmly grasped in the hands of Ian Brooks when it was all over. Brooks, a dynamic 2nd year Political Science student, spent the summer and fall working for the Democratic Party in North Dakota, and did not register until after the November election. Elected to the council the previous spring, Brooks had garnered the Publications niche, and in the fall came under heavy criticism from his fellow councillors for "ignoring" his post. An attempt to remove him never materialized. Never-the-less, the publicity involved in the affair moved Brooks into the limelight of the campus. With his return, it became apparent that he was a force in Council politics, and surprising no one, he ran for the post of USC President in the spring elections against Jim Stevens and Bill Barrill.

Perhaps his popularity was even less clouded than others as he had been off campus at the time of the CUS Referendum, and consequently, he had not gotten covered by any of the muck thrown then.

In any case, Stevens withdrew and Brooks defeated Barrill convincingly. For John Yokom, the year was not a good one. Perhaps disheartened, or perhaps disillusioned with the campus as a result of the CUS defeat, John had to spend much of his time from the fall to the spring repairing the damage done in the referendum. Finance Minister Gilles Ouellette pulled off a minor miracle by getting the USC budget into the black for the first time in several years, and handed the whole mess to Gord Cudmore to do the same next year.

PIRATES OF PENZANCE
GILBERT & SULLIVAN

Pirates stormed the Western front from the G & S quarter, and completely captured their audiences. Putting on their annual show, the G & S Society chose Pirates of Penzance for their offering this year. Under the directorship of Julia Watts and the musical touch of Wessanne McKellar, the show ran for a week on the Talbot Theatre stage in January. Jim Francom, Bob Glaves, George Moore and Harold Johnson handled the male leads excellently against the well-played female leads Brenda Meller and Pat Halter.
With a neat set of songs to sing, the chorus backed up the leads solidly. A fine performance all-round.

The Robert McChesney Memorial Trophy was awarded to John Makins as "the member of the Hockey team excelling in loyalty and sportsmanship."

Brent Imlach was awarded the Circle 'K' Trophy for the most valuable player on the team, and he certainly deserved it. A high scorer all season, for a time Brent was in the running for the scoring championship. Don Simmons, the Mustang's goalie, was outstanding this season, but unfortunately, it seemed that too often the group in front of him was unable to put the puck in the net at the other end.

VOLLEYBALL AND WRESTLING: 2 CHAMPIONS

Here are two of Western's three OQAA Championship teams. Along with the Rowing team, the Volleyball and Wrestling teams were the ones who brought home the gold in '68-'69. The volleyball team, coached by Dutch Decker repeated as OQAA champs from last year, beating the '67-'68 Canadian champs, the University of Ottawa in the final playoffs.

The team then went on to the C.I.A.U. Championships in New Brunswick, where they were beaten in the final by the University of Winnipeg squad. The wrestlers, coached by Glynn Leyshon did excellently in their meets all year, taking on all comers, including a strong squad from Michigan. In the OQAA finals in Montreal, the Westerners beat out last year's champion, Guelph, 74 — 71. Individual champions were Bill Tinslay at 130 lb., Mike Connolly at 137 lb., and Joe Rabel at 145 lb.

Congratulations to these teams for magnificent efforts.

SWIMMING, FENCING, AND OTHERS

The swimming team did well in the season, ending up in fourth place in the OQAA championship meet. Coached by Bob Eynon, the team had two individual winners in the OQAA competitions.

Klaus Meier won the 100 yard breaststroke, while Paul Walker took the 200 yard Breaststroke, setting a new record of 2:23.4 in the process.

The mermen had a number of meets this year against many different teams, including a powerful squad from Notre Dame, and although they were not too often successful in these, the competitive experience showed well in the OQAA finals. In Fencing, the team placed third in the Western Division Tournament at Waterloo.

In Golf, a five-man team coached by Dutch Decker went to the OQAA Championships in Montreal and placed sixth out of twelve teams entered.

Tennis, coached again by the Dutch, saw Western climb to third place in the Western Division OQAA Tournament in Hamilton.

In Badminton, Ken Delf won the overall OQAA title for the second year in a row, while the rest of the team, coached by Dutch Decker, finished in third place in the Western OQAA Division, after the tournament at Waterloo.

The Squash men, coached by Jack Fair, were third in the OQAA Tournament, also held at Waterloo.

A surprisingly strong Western ski team was ninth at Mont Sutton Quebec, after having dominated the area in a number of Ontario region competitions.

The Curling team, coached by Dutch Decker, rocked into third place in the Western Division Bonspiel at Guelph with a 2 – 3 record.

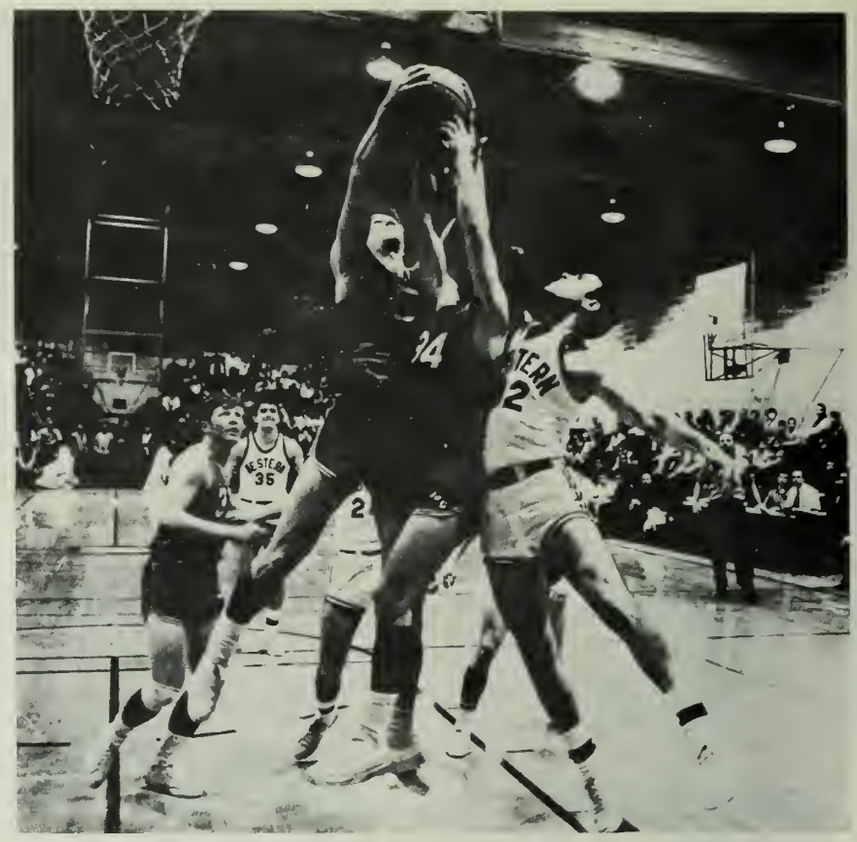
In individual awards, Ron Zanin won the Metras trophy as the MVP on the basketball squad, Mike Connolly got the nod as the MVP from the wrestlers, Ron Wakelin was the top man from the football team, getting the George McCullagh Trophy, while Arend Bonen and Paul Walker shared the Peter Fowler Trophy awarded to the top swimmers. Wayne Yetman was awarded the McNie Trophy for the Most Valuable Member of the Track Team, while the Dr. Claude Brown Trophy was awarded jointly to Terry McKinty and Ron Zanin for the greatest contribution to Athletics at Western.

Both Ron Zanin and Dave McGuffin were awarded the Special Purple Blanket Award.

MUSTANG BASKETBALL

Western's basketball squad ended up the '68-'69 OQAA schedule in a three-way tie with Toronto and McMaster for second spot. In a sudden death playoff, McMaster won 90 — 77, making it curtains for the last year's OQAA champs.

The team started off strong, and then just sort of petered out, making it very difficult to compare the team of last year with this year's. The season did mark a first for the Stangs, however, as they played their first games in the new Alumni Hall court. As far as Coach Gonser was concerned, however, it might have been better had they not, as both times, his team was beaten by 29 point margins, first by Windsor and then by Toronto.



Although the team was definitely not as strong as the one the year before, the problem seemed to be that the opposition had improved from last year. The season, too, was lost on the road, as they lost three games away from their old home court, the Eric Reid Gym, and the other two in the new Alumni Hall.

Their league record was 5 — 5 and including exhibition games, the record for the season was a better looking 10 — 7.

ROWING

Coached by Phil Fitz-James, the rowing team won another OQAA Championship again this year. Last summer, the rowing boys put up a good try at the Olympic trials, and had one of their boats sunk when it was rammed by a competitor who had jumped a lane. However, they were not able to beat off some serious challenges, and as a result, they didn't make Mexico.

No matter, as this year they were back trying to raise some more money for a better shell. This time around, they had a raffle, with the prize being a VW Dune Buggy, assembled by A and E Motors, and sold to the rowing team for the cost price.

In the intramural competitions, it was UC who ended up on top at the end of the year with 281½ points, sixty ahead of second-place Huron. Football was won by King's, swimming by C.S., basketball by the Business School, hockey by M.C., and wrestling and volleyball by U.C.

WOMEN'S SPORTS

In Women's intramural sports, Brescia completely dominated the field, winning the Lang Trophy with 137 points, ahead of U.C., who came in second with 91 points. Delaware was close behind with 88 points, and fourth place was taken by Westminster with 41 points.

The reasons for the victory were not because Brescia won everything, but because they always placed highly in the different competitions.

In individual awards, Jane Allsion was presented the F.W.P. Jones Trophy as the top female athlete at Western in '68-'69 while Lee Coleman, Janice Walker, and Bev Pierce were awarded their Bronze "W's".

OZAWA AND SHANKAR

Of the many remaining cultural events that took place at Western, two of the most notable were the concert put on by Seiji Ozawa and the Toronto Symphony, and Ravi Shankar. The Toronto Symphony was brought in by the Alumni Association's Great Artists' Series for their annual Spring Festival. In recent years, they have been bringing George Szell and the Cleveland Symphony in, but this year it was the T.S.O.'s turn. And no one was disappointed. With magnificent control, Ozawa directed his orchestra with a light but firm touch, getting a sound out of them that is rarely heard out of any orchestra, let alone one from one hundred and twenty miles from London.

The Sunday Nine O'Clock Committee wound up its incredibly successful season by presenting the master of Indian sitarists: Ravi Shankar. Playing with a freedom, yet precision that is not found in Western music, Shankar captured his audience. The concert could be described as something akin to a religious experience, as the music swept around the listener, lifting his mind away from the actualities of the hall.

In the exams, Paul Mauriat came in under the banner of the Great Artists' Series, and his style and humour were enthusiastically greeted by another packed house in Alumni Hall.

EXAMINATIONS

All of a sudden, it was over, or almost. The only thing that stood between you and freedom was a set of exams . . . . EXAMS? Oh my god i can't learn all that . . . . what have i been doing all year?

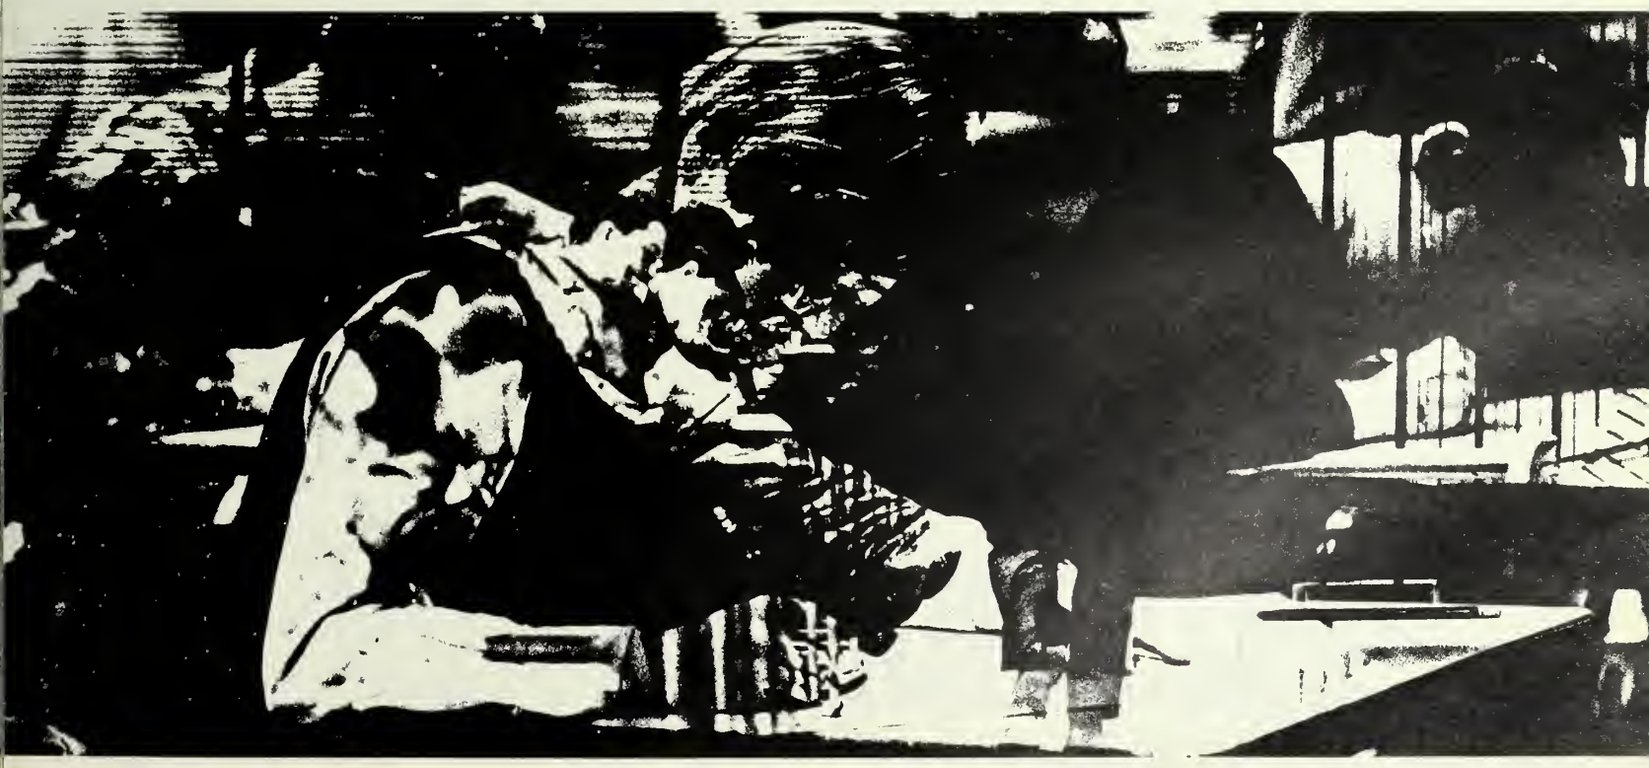
It was time for the all-nighters and the days and days on end spent in the Talbot library or wherever, and everyone walked around with a stunned look on their face. The Ceeps seemed to be the place to go.

Some kind soul decided that there would be a simple way of eliminating exams . . . i.e. by eliminating the places where they were written.

On the morning of the English 20 exam, when Alumni Hall was jammed with people struggling over Milton and Pope, a female phoned up the main switchboard and said "My boy friend has planted a bomb in Alumni Hall and I don't know what to do." and obligingly hung up.

Not wanting to have to replace Alumni Hall, the security police decided to take a look, and because all those people were in the way, they had to go too. (One of them could be a walking bomb, Fred.) To make a long story short, the people whose exams were disrupted were given the choice of having about five ways of determining their final mark. Just think, they've been trying to figure out some way of eliminating finals, and all the time it was that easy.

So the year is finished. Maybe you graduated, in which case, your picture could well be in the next one hundred and twenty pages. If you didn't, you may be coming back. This was the record of '68-'69.



ADMINISTRATION

ADMINISTRATION

DR. D. CARLTON WILLIAMS
PRESIDENT & VICE CHANCELLOR

DR. WILLIAMS, WHAT DID YOU SEE AS THE MOST SIGNIFICANT EVENT AT WESTERN IN 1968-69?

I think it would have to be the establishment of the Senate as the working body at Western and the consolidation of the Senate as the academic central source of authority for the University.

This could not have taken place except for the fortunate fact that at present we have a system where the Board of Governors and the Senate can work together. If we can have that, the University prospers. If they don't work together, the University is in deep difficulty.

What this past year has proven is that the Senate and the Board can work together. There are four academic Senators on the Board, elected by the Senate. All the Vice-Presidents are on the Board and the Senate. Also various members of the Board attend the Senate meetings. This has put an end to the mutual suspicion that existed before and has proved beneficial from the standpoint of the students as well. The Senate has moved steadily towards the student concept of "openness". So now we have open meetings.

Also, while we have only three student Senators (that is all the U. W. O. Act provided for at the time it was passed), we now have sixteen student observers. They can't vote, but they can do everything else and they can sit on certain committees and help share the load of Senate decision-making. So I think this is the thing: the Senate has extended its relationship in one direction with the Board, and in the other direction with the students. And I think that after this year everyone can see that it works; it isn't a hoax.

I think that this is the reason that things have gone along pretty well. I mean, we've had our arguments and discussions — we always will. Someone asked me the other day, "Do you think that you will ever get full consensus on something or other?" I said, "My God! In a university you can't get consensus on the date. There's bound to be someone who is going to question the validity of the Gregorian Calendar".

So there is no sense in expecting consensus in the 100% sense of the word but I do think you get agreement in that you get crystalization of the majority opinion.

This is what has put Western way out in front in terms of governing itself. It is a demonstration too, of the students being responsible in terms of what they have done during the past year. And that isn't meant in the sense of — "If they agree with me, they are being responsible, and if they don't agree with me, they are being irresponsible".

HOW ABOUT THE CHANGE IN THE PHYSICAL UNIVERSITY?

There have been some really first class things happen here this year. In terms of expansion, of course, the university has opened the new Dental School; we started on the new Library; and when we have finished what the sod-turning ceremony began, this will be the first university in Canada to have its own hospital on campus. We opened the new addition to the Business School, which is a major achievement, and then there was the addition of the Milton Collection to the Library — one of the great scholarly achievements of the year.

SEVERAL YEARS AGO DR. HALL PUT A CEILING OF 5,000 ON THE UNIVERSITY FOR THE NUMBER OF STUDENTS. DO YOU SEE A CEILING OF YOUR OWN AT WESTERN?

Everybody sees a ceiling on their university, but all I think it does is give you a good feeling while you manage to stay under it. At Western I don't think there will be any absolute limit until it is decided by some other body, for example, the Provincial Government.

If somebody came along tomorrow and said "Ten thousand is enough for you", well I'd say "HURRAH! Let's stop right there."

But in the future, we may well have to impose limitations, and that will be very, very hard.

WHAT ARE THE GRADUATES GOING TO DO? WHAT KIND OF CHANGES DO YOU THINK THEY WILL EFFECT?

In my view, the people who are coming through now are far more determined than I ever remember them being in the past . . . . . and that goes back quite a long way.

In the fifties nobody wanted a change. We graduated a whole decade of nice young men in gray flannel suits, whose ideal and hope in heaven was a nice house in the suburbs and a pretty wife and three point two children, a good job in the city and a stationwagon to commute to work every day and a car for Milly to drive around. They didn't want a change. They all wanted to conform. They were definitely committed to the affluent society.

Well now we have people for whom that is not good enough. They want to spread the affluence more widely to make sure that poverty is eliminated. This group has a great sense of conscience about the world . . . about the disadvantaged: the Eskimo, the Indian, the Negro. And I think they will be successful. I think that they will do a lot about it, and they are doing a lot about it now.

AND WHAT CAN THE GRADUATE DO FOR WESTERN?

I certainly hope to see them develop and intensify the tradition of the older alumni in that they will continue to take an interest in Western, both culturally and economically, after they graduate, in order to develop Western as a better University and better scholarly community.

What price education?

It is beyond price! Education cannot be bought, borrowed, or inherited. The only way to obtain it, is to earn it. Stelco recognizes its value, and the increasing need for it, in today's highly-competitive atmosphere . . . and also recognizes that specialized education is denied to many deserving young Canadians through lack of funds. This is why Stelco sponsors a program of assistance to universities, technical schools, and students across Canada, by providing awards, scholarships and bursaries in Technology, Engineering, Science, Business Administration, Teaching, Commerce, and Finance.

For further information on this program, or on a career in steel, write to Stelco's Head office in Hamilton, Ontario.

What's Canadian Westinghouse been up to lately?

About 1,000 feet. Shooting film.

Canadian Westinghouse gets around. On sea, land and in the air. And great ideas always seem to follow.

Take the WESSCAM system for instance.

It's a camera mount. And the most versatile and stable one around. As stable as a ground-based tripod. The WESSCAM mount can be used to take movies from helicopters, boats, automobiles and just about anything else that moves.

A camera operator inside a helicopter has complete remote control over his filming. He sees the picture on a monitor before his eyes. Hollywood and Toronto film companies have already been using the WESSCAM system.

Developed in our Electronics Division, it's only one of the many great ideas we've had lately. Canadian Westinghouse is up to all sorts of things.

You can be sure if it's Westinghouse

EDITORS' MESSAGE

I guess there is some sort of explanation in order here. You opened the cover and probably expected to see Ted Collis' name inside. At the end of exams, it was indicated that to get the book out on time in October, it would be necessary to hire someone to do the job for the summer: one person. Ted was not able to do this, and I was hired by the USC to put together this book. That's right . . . . all 256 pages of it. By myself.

It is now late July, and the book is finished — all but the last two pages that I type now — and it has been an experience I will never forget. The pictures were all there, but as negatives, and so I had to print them up. The information was all there, but I had to dig it up.

It is strange what you learn in the process: like the fact that the police gave out 6000 parking tickets last year, or that there are almost 300,000 volumes in the library, or that the per capita consumption of coffee per day at Western is something like 3.1 cups, or . . . . .

It was an experience. Drop by the Yearbook office some day (103B Somerville House) and admire the stairwell east of it. This connects the tunnel from the new Weldon Library to Somerville House.

They used jackhammers to go through the wall under the office and the same jackhammers to go up through the floor in the room that used to be next to mine. They make a lot of noise.

It was an experience. It is very humid in London in the early summer, and for a while it was so humid that the air circulating system was putting super-humid air into the dark-room, and the water was condensing — everywhere. It is almost discouraging to have sixty prints dry, and then have to dry them again when they absorb the water out of the air and become as damp as if they had just come out of the water. But the yearbook was not all my doing. I have to thank the photographers, because without them, there would have been no point in putting out a yearbook. Pictures are worth one thousand words, so the wise say.

So these are the people who took pictures:

d. r. brown
E. Browne
E. Collis
G. Craig
J. Crossley
F. Darke
E. Davis
J. C. Davis
T. DeYoe
M. Eaton
D. Eppelsheimer
G. Garner
M. Hasek
J. Haskett
P. Kuttis
D. Matthews
C. F. Petersen
J. Unsworth
E. VanEyck-Bromberg
Valley
T. Welsh
R. Whipp

Special thanks should go to d. r. brown, who supplied some of the best pictures for the book; to John Jukes, who gave every assistance possible from the Alumni Association and the Alumni Gazette; to Dave (Deeb) Scott who listened patiently while I ranted at him when things didn't go right; to Lorne Millar, the new manager of the CAB who sold all the ads for the book and who laid things out right the first time; to Valley, who sympathised every time she walked into the mess that I called an office; and most of all to Mona, who put up with me.

All I can say to you who get this book is:

> the best of luck to you. I hope that this helps you remember Western, because Western is a good place, and you should remember it. You have given something to the place by coming . . . . you're taking something by going. I'm glad that you were here, and I'm glad that I was.

A question on a philosophy exam once asked "Is this a question?" — the answer was (supposedly) "If that is a question, this is an answer."

If this is a yearbook, then this must be an editor's message.
